Two Injured When L. & D. Train Hits Car at Phoenicia

William Wood of Fultonville, N. Y. is in a critical condition at the Kingston Hospital and Richard Fonda, also of Fultonville, is at the same hospital with injuries that are not expected to prove fatal. The men were conveyed to the hospital from the Ulster and Delaware station here, Wednesday evening, having been brought here on a special train following a crash between a north bound passenger train of the Ulster and Delaware railroad and the automobile in which they were riding, at the Snyder Hollow crossing about a half mile above Phoenicia. The accident happened shortly before nine o'clock.

At the hospital this morning it was stated the condition of Mr. Wood was still critical and the condition of Mr. Fonda improved. An operation will be performed today on Mr. Fonda to further aid his recovery.

Wood and Fonda were reported visiting friends at Woodland Valley and upon their return failed to see the train when it was approaching the crossing and the crash occurred. The men were thrown out of the car for some distance, Wood being picked up unconscious. The train was immediately stopped and word sent back to Phoenicia for help. An engine and passenger coach was rushed to the scene and the two men placed aboard and brought here.

The dispatcher's office of the Ulster and Delaware got in touch with the local police and the city ambulance was sent to the station and the men were taken to the hospital.

KILLED BY OFFICER IN TEXAS LIQUOR RAID

Poteet, Texas, Aug. 3 (AP).—Tom Chandler, 43, was shot and killed by Charles Stevens, a federal prohibition enforcement agent, in a liquor raid on the Chandler farm near here yesterday. The officer claimed the shooting was accidental.

Stevens, who was accompanied by J. H. Hertzel, another federal prohibition agent; Andy Aneson, city marshal, and Robert Lotte, said Chandler was on the front porch when they approached his house. The officer said he called to him: "We are federal prohibition agents. Come out here."

Chandler, Stevens said, seized a gun on a cot and pointed it toward them. The officer declared he started to "rush" the farmer and accidentally fired his rifle when he stumbled. The bullet penetrated Chandler's heart.

The officers said they found a still, 3 barrels of mash, 28 gallons of whisky and a quantity of beer on the farm. Stevens was permitted to spend the night in his home in San Antonio on his promise to return here today for a coroner's inquest.

THREE KILLED WHEN THEIR PLANE CRASHE

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 3 (AP)—One of the three men killed in an airplane crash here last night was identified by police today as Ambrose Monell, son of the late metal manufacturer, of New York city. Monell was accompanied by Francis B. Grundy of Cleveland, Ohio, and Joseph L. Cognari, the pilot, of New York.

The plane was first seen by residents of Greenwich as it circled the estate of John H. Sterling. At an altitude of 2,500 feet it was seen to suddenly bank as the plane's motor stopped and then went into a tail spin. It is believed that the motor stalled and the pilot, Cognari, was trying to attempt a forced landing on the Sterling estate. A moment later it crashed nose-down.

When the plane and its passengers was found by spectators, the bodies of the three were pinned beneath the wreckage, all dead and badly mangled. The motor of the plane had buried itself ten feet into the ground.

AUBURN PRISONER ESCAPES FROM ROAD CAMP

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Auburn prison authorities reported today another prisoner had escaped, this time from a road camp, while the four still at large after Sunday's riot were vainly sought throughout the state and in New England.

Jacob Wayniechowski escaped last night. He was serving fifteen years for first degree robbery. He was committed from Buffalo in 1922.

There have been no reports of the four who scaled the walls Sunday since two campers reported they were held up and robbed of their clothes Sunday night.

Not Anxious for Submarine Duty.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—So small has been the response of naval officers to the opportunity offered them early this year to take a course in submarine training that the Navy Bureau of Navigation has sent a letter to all ships and stations calling attention that a submarine is virtually the only type of ship an officer may hope to command until he has been out of the naval academy 15 years. Original notice was given in February that a class of 40 officers would be assembled for six months next January at New London, and that those completing the course would be assigned to submarines. To date three officers have made application.

Free Ice Cream Lures to Death

One Child Dead and 12 Seriously Burned When Gasoline Tank Explodes.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP).—Lured on by the hope of free ice cream, one child was burned to death and a number of other persons were seriously injured when the gasoline tank of a wrecked ice cream truck exploded.

John Muha, five years old, died at Chambersburg Hospital. Thirteen others are in hospitals suffering from burns, six of them in a serious condition. Almost a score more were permitted to go to their homes after receiving treatment at hospitals and at the scene of the wreck.

The truck, property of the Hilderbrech Ice Cream Company, upset as the driver attempted to make a sharp turn to avoid a collision. A crowd, composed mostly of youngsters, attracted by the spilled ice cream, gathered.

While a wrecking crew worked over the vehicle, an unidentified man removed the cap from the gasoline tank. The fuel flowed over the heated motor and exploded, showering flaming liquid upon the crowd.

Cries of the victims aroused the neighborhood, a crowded tenement district. Uninjured bystanders stopped the children as they ran with burning clothes and beat out the flames.

Police are looking for the man who released the gasoline.

Frauds Alleged In Greene County

What Price Supervisors—Useless Excursions—Double Pay for Assessment Work.

Albany, August 3 (AP).—Greene county's financial affairs, reported by the state compiroller as filled with fraud, are being investigated by Governor Roosevelt, who has appointed Justice Ellis J. Staley of Albany to preside over an extraordinary term of supreme court at Catskill on August 26. The district attorney of Greene, Harrison I. Gardner, has been superseded in the investigation by the state's attorney general, Hamilton Ward.

Disclosures made by examiners and reported to Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine, who laid them before the governor, included "fraud, misconduct and dishonesty" on the part of some supervisors and a former sheriff. Illegal claims made by coroners, constables and justices, which were audited and paid by the supervisors, also were brought to the attention of the governor.

Creation of jobs, in direct conflict with law, trips to New York city and Atlantic City, termed "useless excursions"; padded expense accounts bringing the cost of living of a supervisor to as hgh as $30 a day; collecting pay for meetings not attended and being paid for work on assessment rolls which the county paid a clerk to do, were among the revelations in the Tremaine report.

Recalling that legislation was introduced at the last session to create a commission to investigate the operaton of county governments, but that leaders refused to permit the bills to come out of committee, Governor Roosevelt said: "It is of course clear that changes from the present unbusinesslke and often corrupt methods are opposed by the local political machines of many towns and counties, which thrive on the patronage and spoils afforded by these antiquated systems of government."

Labor Strike Is Still in Progress

Schenectady, August 3 (AP).—Maurice McCarthy, Jr., of the Green Meadows Club, continued his march through the state amateur golf tournament here today, defeating S. E. McKean, of Oneonta, four and three, in the quarter-final rounds. McCarthy has ruled as favorite since the opening play of the tournament. The semi-finals were scheduled for this afternoon.

The Postal on Fair Street.

In the item printed in The Freeman on Friday evening noting that an extra operator has been placed on duty at the office of the Postal Telegraph Company and that the office would be kept open until 10 o'clock evenings, it was inadvertently stated the office was located on John street. It should have been 294 Fair street, near John street.

Federal Agents Were Kept Busy

Lyons Restaurant on John Street Raided and Proprietor Arrested—Several Places Raided in Sullivan County.

The local federal prohibition office agents had a busy time the past week, and made several arrests and seized a considerable quantity of wet goods. All of the places raided were in Sullivan county with the exception of one, that of the Lyons restaurant at 54-56 John street, where an agent dressed as a laborer entered the restaurant, and it is alleged was served with a glass of whiskey. James Lyons, the proprietor, and a woman named Krom who was alleged to have served the drink, were arrested. Later when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly, they furnished bail for their appearance later.

Raid Nutshell Inn.

One of the biggest places raided Thursday by the agents was the Nutshell Inn and Casino at Lake Huntington. This is a large summer resort with a very large dance hall and dining room. The Inn was entered to execute a warrant and before it was served the agents asked Joseph Schaffer, the proprietor, where the bar room was. The agents allege that Schaffer led them through three rooms, the doors of which were unlocked by Schaffer, and finally after passing through the third door they found themselves in the bar room.

The agents alleged that they were served with two drinks of whiskey, and they then placed Schaffer under arrest, charging him with both sale and possession. The premises were searched and a supply of what was said to be rye whiskey was seized.

Visit Delaware Inn.

The Delaware Inn at Jefferson was also visited and Joseph Brownstein, the proprietor, was arrested charged with the possession of whiskey.

The Oasis Now Dry

The Oasis on the Loch Sheldrake road, near Liberty, was also visited by the agents and Howard Rowe, the proprietor, was arrested. The agents also arrested Thelma Rowe, 18 years old, who they charged with serving the agents drinks.

Country Club Raided.

The agents paid a visit to the Loch Sheldrake Country Club at Loch Sheldrake, where they allege they bought some glasses of whiskey. They placed Samuel Tannenbaum, the proprietor, under arrest and also the bartender, Nick Stieglitz. A quantity of wet goods was seized by the agents.

Fannie Weiss Arrested.

The private home of Fannie Weiss at Ferndale was also visited. The agents claim that when they introduced themselves the woman broke a bottle of whiskey but the house was searched and more wet goods found.

All of those arrested will be arraigned later before U. S. Commissioner Connelly at his office on Wall street.

MYSTERY IN SHOOTING OF CHINESE PRINCE.

Tokyo, Aug. 3 (AP).—Prince Hsien Kai, 21-year-old cousin of China's former boy Emperor, P'u-Yi, died late Friday night of wounds received the preceding night from a pistol held by Chang Tsung Chang, former Shantung, China, war lord.

The atmosphere of mystery about the slaying deepened today. There was another version of the affair current, that it was not Chang but his secretary who held the revolver which killed Prince Hsin. Chang, however, "assumes responsibility."

There have been no arrests and police refuse to discuss the case.

To Hang for 1915 Shooting.

Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 3 (AP).—The long arm of the law reached out across fourteen years and the wreck of an empire today to sentence Captain Pirc, formerly of the Austrian gendarmerie, to be hanged for shooting a Jugo-Slav farmer in 1915. Captain Pirc was shown by testimony to have shot Marco Djilic without trial, on suspicion of spying while the Austrian armies were occupying the northern part of Siberia in 1915. Djilic, while hunting for a lost horse, entered the gendarmes barracks, where he was captured and shot by order of Pirc.

Gallahair, Anniston, Ala., taxi driver, and Mrs. Lucy Wilkerson of near Jacksonville, Ala., were found in the White's Gap section, about 12 miles from Anniston, early today. Ulster Garage To Be Demolished Early Next Week

To Erect Modern Retail Store on Site for Montgomery & Ward—New Building Must Be Ready by November 15.

The Ulster Garage on Fair street, which was recently sold to Montgomery & Ward, has been officially closed and the work of demolishing the garage will be started early next week. On the site of the garage will be erected a modern retail store building which, under the contract, must be ready for occupancy by November 15 of this year.

Plans and specifications for the new building have been approved and are in the hands of the contractors. The new building will be of all steel and brick construction.

The store will have a frontage of 53 feet and will be 120 feet deep, with basement. The basement will have nine-foot ceilings. The first floor will have nineteen foot ceilings with a mezzanine, while the second floor will have eleven foot ceilings.

With the passing of the garage one of the oldest buildings in the uptown business section will pass into history. The building for years was occupied as a livery stable, and with the passing of the livery business the building was modernized somewhat and turned into a garage, for which purpose it has been used for a number of years.

Floods Replace Drouth in Iowa

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—The farmers' prayers for rain were answered yesterday with torrents which brought relief to parched crops in most sections of the middle west, but desolation and floods to parts of Iowa. Seven inches of rain were reported at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with 3.5 inches recorded here.

Farmers in the flooded areas of Iowa saw their crops swept away by the rain which they had needed to break the long drought. Thousands of acres were inundated, highways were awash, and railroad tracks and bridges were swept away.

Most of the damage wrought by the storm was between Cedar Rapids and Belle Plains, Iowa. Washouts on three transcontinental rail lines delayed trains from 8 to 20 hours.

Creeks in vicinity of Marengo rose ten feet, carrying off chickens, hogs, farm machinery and sheds.

51ST PIONEERS' BIRTHPLACE TO BE REUNION HEADQUARTERS

The annual reunion of the 51st Pioneer Infantry will be held Sunday, August 18, at the state armory here, where the organization was born. The reason for holding the session on Sunday, for the first time in the existence of the organization, is so that every member may have a chance to attend and have a voice in the important business to be transacted. According to the traditions of the Pioneers there willl be plenty of fun at the "blow-out" that is to feature the reunion.

Following the business session at the armory the ex-soldiers will advance to Watson Hollow Inn, overlooking the Ashokan reservoir, with their appetites sharpened, prepared for an attack on a menu that promises to excel any that Pete Keresman served the outfit while he was camp cook. His specialty was beans by government orders and he served them in such generous quantities that most of the Pioneers would rather start another war than look at another bean. There will be no beans on the menu, so likely everyone of the old 51st Regiment, for whom it is possible, will be at the reunion and "feed".

Just because Pete Keresman will have nothing to do with preparing another menu for the Pioneers is no sign that the local police officer will not be a prominent figure at the reunion. Pete will be one of the centers of interest, because his old buddies have named him as a candidate for third vice president of the outfit. His election is almost assured for he has been a staunch and active Pioneer from the time that he entered the outfit.

BANDITS KILL MESSENGER AND TAKE PAYROLL.

Bradley Beach, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP).—Four robbers today shot and killed George Danielson, 65-year-old bank messenger of Steiner and Company, and escaped with a payroll of $7,100. Danielson, an employe of the First National Bank, died in a hospital at Spring Lake shortly after he was shot.

Ottawa, Kansas, August 3 (AP).—Ray Pennibaker, 21, farm hand, was in jail here today charged with the murder of his 6-year-old niece, Elva Irene Barnes, who died after eating a candy bar in which, it is alleged, he placed poison and gave to his wife.

Italy Has Big Public Scandal

Negotiations With American Banking Company Involved—Mussolini's Ideas of Splendor Pleaded In Excuse for Heavy Expenditures.

Rome, Aug. 3 (AP).—Italy today was in the throes of its greatest public scandal in years. It involved Ernesto Belloni, former Mayor of Milan and Italian financial expert at Versailles and the reparation and debt conferences, and un-named advisers.

Belloni was summarily removed late yesterday by Premier Mussolini from all public and political activity and various of his advisors, were imprisoned. The action followed report of a special committee into Belloni activities as Mayor of Milan.

The charges provoking the investigation were levelled by Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party and now provincial secretary at Cremona. He charged that Belloni favored the American Banking Company, Dillon Read and Company, in return for a large money compensation in allotting a loan of $30,000,000 to the city of Milan in 1927.

The committee exonerated Belloni of this charge, but found he had used his office to increase his private fortune.

The committee decided that Dillon Read and Company's loan was itself regular but that Belloni's negotiations with the company were not. The committee said the loan was not so favorable as loans offered by other banks but there was no evidence Belloni received compensation for his approval. The loan also was approved by the minister of finance.

Belloni's plea was that he undertook extraordinary expenses and contracts for the city in order to elevate it to splendor in accordance with directions of the government and of Premier Mussolini.

Both Belloni and Farinacci have been among the most prominent members of the Fascist party.

Mentioned by the committee as specific activities of Belloni were, for instance, paving, re-paving, unpaving, and re-paving of Meravigli street each time giving the contract to a company in which he was interested. He also was executive in a gas company which secured favorable gas contracts for the city.

NEW HEADQUARTERS, NEW BOATS, FOR RUM-RUNNERS.

Windsor, Ont., August 3 (Canadian Press)—Detroit interests are behind new rum running syndicates which contemplate operations around the northeastern end of Lake Ontario with headquarters at Kingston, according to claims of under-cover agents of the United States prohibition enforcement department.

There is a further report that a new fleet of boats is to be placed in service by the Lake Ontario rum runners. The new craft, it is said, are of greater capacity than the usual rum boats and of greater speed.

Many of the rum runners took a vacation the past month after the blockade of the United States "dry" navy had become remarkably efficient and the Detroit river trade fell away to practically nothing.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY

Huston Probable National Chairman.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—Chairman Hubert Work is expected to call the Republication national committee together in Washington between September 8 and 14 to select a successor for himself and to act on other shifts regarded as likely in the party's titular leadership. This is the word being passed around in political circles here, with speculation centering more and more firmly about Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee as the probable choice for the chairmanship.

Negroes on Memphis Election Board.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 3 (AP).—For the first time since reconstruction days, negroes have been appointed election officials in this southern city. The list of registrars announced by the new county election commission to serve in a precinct with a heavy negro vote included the names of two negroes, an undertaker and a school teacher. Otherwise the list for the county varied only slightly from that appointed by the old commission.

Mr. Hull was elected district attorney in 1883, serving in that office for fifteen years.

Today Is Circus Day in Kingston

Christy Brothers Circus Playing This Afternoon and Evening at Fair Grounds—Parade at Noon.

Shortly after 6 o'clock this morning Christy Brothers' circus train pulled into Kingston over the West Shore Railroad, and the work of unloading started at once, and by noon all of the tents were in position. The work of unloading moved swiftly and the usual large number of boys were on hand to watch proceedings.

The circus is playing on the Fair Grounds on Washington avenue, at the foot of North Front street, and all boys who were willing to work and help carry water to the elephants and otherwise assist the circus men were placed at work.

It was noon when the big circus parade moved out of the circus lot and started on down Broadway, and all along the line of march large numbers of spectators gathered to see the first big circus parade here this season.

At the afternoon performance there was a large attendance. The circus plays again this evening at 8 o'clock.

Preparing for Zeppelin Landing

150 Marines to Assist Ground Crew of 275 at Lakehurst—Parking Space for 20,000 Automobiles.

Lakehurst, N. J., August 3 (AP).—Preparations for reception of the Graf Zeppelin Sunday, the day of her expected arrival, were going forward rapidly today.

Arrangements for housing, refueling and caring for the great airship were being made under the direction of naval officers. The ground crew of 275 attached to the dirigible Los Angeles has been augmented by 150 marines from the Brooklyn and Philadelphia Navy Yards to assist in bringing the Graf to earth.

The Los Angeles, undergoing its annual overhauling, has been moved to the north side of the hangar with the navy blimps J-3 and J-4, leaving the south side clear for the expected visitor. Arrangements have been completed for piping the 1,000,000 cubic feet of special fuel gas and the 500,000 cubic feet of hydrogen that the Zeppelin will require for her return flight.

A crowd of 200,000 is expected Sunday. Parking space has been marked for 20,000 automobiles and roads have been designated as one-way highways. A detachment of 50 State Troopers has been assigned to assist marines on the post in maintaining police lines. A section of the landing field has been set aside for visiting naval and military planes, which are expected to bring many high ranking army and navy officers.

High powered amplifiers have been installed on the roof of the hangar to broadcast reports to the crowd of the Zeppelin's progress as it nears the coast. A horn pointing skyward will enable officers of the ground crew to talk directly to those on the dirigible as she hovers over the field preparatory to landing.

Lindgren Will Leap Tonight

Eric Lindgren, although still limping badly from the injured ankle he received last Saturday at the Saugerties airport, has decided to make two parachute jumps at the local field this week end, one Saturday night and one Sunday night, each at 8 o'clock.

It was thought that Lindgren would be unable to jump for some time owing to the injured ankle but yesterday when he arrived at the flying field he informed Mr. Powell, owner of the field where the airport is located, that he would jump Saturday and if possible Sunday, stating that he was tired of the inactivity of convalescence.

The jumps this week end promise to be thrilling owing to Lindgren's injury. It will undoubtedly be very difficult for him to land as his ankle is very sore and it will surely be painful to land on it, especially at the speed at which he will be traveling when he nears the ground at the end of his jump.

Curtis and Two Secretaries Remain.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—The government's business was carried forward chiefly outside the capital today, with President Hoover and eight of his cabinet members out of the city seeking relief from the heat. Vice President Curtis and two cabinet members, Secretaries Lamont and Wilbur, were the only administration officials remaining in Washington over the week-end.

Thought Drowned, Found Alive.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—John Montgomery, 32, assistant county prosecutor at Sedalia, Mo., for whose body police have dragged the Mississippi river at St. Louis for three weeks, was prevented from self-destruction today by detectives who found him on the point of shooting himself. His coat and a note indicating suicide were found on a Mississippi river bridge three weeks ago.

Zeppelin Should Reach New York Sunday Afternoon

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—A radio message to the Navy Department at Washington at 7:45 p. m., E. S. T., last night said that the Graf Zeppelin was 50 miles south of Pico Azores. The position given was about 2,500 miles from Friedrichshafen and about 1,600 miles by the northern route from New York. The ship gave its speed as 52 miles an hour. Its position indicated an average speed since departure of 56 miles an hour.

It followed the 35th parallel westward then, and to the south of Fayal, near where there would have been danger in striking the mountain island Pico, which rises 7,000 feet above sea level.

The message to the Navy Department said the Zeppelin was heading northwestward, indicating it would pass north of Bermuda, sighting its first land Sunday somewhere along the northeastern United States Atlantic seaboard.

Messages from aboard the Graf Zeppelin indicated a pleasant voyage, with the 18 passengers singing, playing cards, and watching the Atlantic panorama below them. It was cloudy part of the time and at other times the adverse winds made the ship roll slightly but no one had any fault to find with the performance of the Zeppelin.

Besides its cargo of 18 passengers, its stowaway, of whom so little has been said, and its crew of 41 officers and men, the Graf has a large load of mail and freight. The fifteen bags of mail aboard the dirigible contain 30,387 letters and 31,499 post cards, the postoffice department announced yesterday.

RUSSIANS AMAZED AS AMERICANS WEAR PAJAMAS

Kislovodsk, U. S. S. R., Aug. 3 (AP).—American men and women, members of the delegation touring Soviet Russia for business and professional observations, have taken to wearing pajamas the full day round, despite the amazed and astonished stares of the Russians. The pajama is rapidly becoming their daily costume.

Riding down the Volga river, some members of the junket, oppressed by the torrid temperature, attired themselves in bathing suits, but soon found these less practicable than donning by day clothes usually associated with the night. Enroute from Stalingrad to Kislovodsk many more followed suit.

As they sat in their shimmering Japanese silken night garments in two huge dining cars attached to the American millionaires' special train, New York society women resembled gay figures at a masquerade ball.

They seemed wholly undisturbed by the amazement of the Russians along the route. Some of the women remarked that they sought only to keep cool and did not care what they wore.

FIVE YOUNG WOMEN LOST ALL NIGHT IN MOUNTAINS

Inlet, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Five young women, lost more than 12 hours, were found on top of Black Bear Mountain near here early today by state troopers and a posse of veteran guides.

When a state trooper stumbled upon the group in the lee of a sheltering cliff, near the summit of the mountain, they were huddled together for warmth. Since noon Friday the girls had been without food. They were without protection from the cold of the mountain night, as they had expected to return to the hotel at Inlet, where all are employed.

The girls, who had the afternoon off from their duties, set out to scale the mountain early Friday afternoon. The mountain is about a mile from the hotel, and represents a climb of two and a half miles. They were unable to find the return route and were stranded on the peak.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR ASKS COMMISSION'S RESIGNATION

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Governor Louis L. Emmerson yesterday requested the resignations of the present Illinois State Athletic Commission, with the brief comment that such a change "would undoubtedly be for the best interests of boxing in Illinois."

The action came just before the lightweight championship fight last night and circumstances in connection with distribution of tickets for the battle were believed to have been largely responsible.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Comfortable Frock for School or Play.

6473. Pongee in a natural shade was selected for this design. Piping in red and a red tie and buttons form the contrast. The asymmetric theme is stressed in the joining of the yoke and skirt portions. Plait fulness is smartly expressed at the left side of back and front, below the yoke sections. Printed crepe and gingham are also suggested for this pleasing style. The sleeve is full, and gathered above a band cuff.

The pattern for this design is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the dress for a 6-year size will require 2⅝ yards of 39-inch material. For collar and band cuffs of contrasting material ⅜ yard 39 inches wide and cut crosswise is required. To finish with bias binding as illustrated in the large view will require 1¾ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Ancient Helvetians

The Helvetii were a Celtic people who originally dwelt between the Rhine, the Main and the Hercynian forest. Later, according to Caesar, they occupied the region between the Jura mountains, on the west; the Rhone, on the south, and the Rhine, on the east and north. This region corresponds closely with the western part of modern Switzerland.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 3, 1929.

PRACTICAL FARM RELIEF.

President Hoover has announced his intention to ask Congress to compensate the Florida farmers and fruit-growers whose crops have been condemned and destroyed in the fight against the Mediterranean fruit-fly. This would be "farm relief" in definite and readily intelligible form as well as response to urgent need. The Florida farmers and fruit-growers are suffering from no fault of their own. They are victims of a "war measure" to protect the whole country, drastic action to prevent the spread of a devouring pest while attempting also its extermination. Experienced California was the first of the states to demand such action to check the advance of the fruit-fly, knowing that the country's safety from ultimate ravage can be secured in no other way and that delay in such cases makes control doubtful as well as very costly. Florida's acceptance of the quarantine in the country's behalf and vigorous industry in the pest-fight, at the time of the failure of many of her banks, render Federal aid the more appropriate.

There is something startling, almost terrifying, in this steady march of devouring insects. The boll-weevil, the tent-caterpillar, the Japanese beetle, and now the Mediterranean fruit fly. The experts admit the seriousness of the situation. The increase of destructive insects is believed to be really threatening the world's future food supply. According to Dr. Lucian Howard, of our American insect-fighting forces, the increasing myriads of pestiferous insects of enormous fecundity are already man's most formidable rivals for command of the earth.

THE APPROACH TO PARITY.

The way to stop competitive building of navies is to stop. This, in effect, is what President Hoover said in a straightforward letter to the commander of the American Legion, in reply to the latter's protest against the President's order postponing work about to start on three new cruisers.

Naval parity appears to be an agreed-upon principle. The British government favors it. Our government favors it. Even the American Legion favors it. It is better, the President suggests, to establish such a relation by agreement than "to resign ourselves to continued attempts to establish it by rival construction programs" on both sides of the Atlantic. There has been competitive building since the war, he adds, "and we have arrived only at disparity, not parity."

One trouble is that the doctrine of naval parity or equality has been much misrepresented, especially by the big navy men. As interpreted by them, it suggested two rivals playing a game of walking up ladders, each taking a step whenever he thinks the other is not looking, and the other then being under moral obligation to step up and keep even with him, and sneak a little beyond if possible. Now that interpretation is swept away.

The principle is to be applied to all classes of warships. If applied honestly, it should not only insure peace between these two great English-speaking powers, but should hasten the day when navies—among which they will play a dominant role—will be used merely for policing the seas in the interest of world peace.

The Journal of the American Medical Association takes issue with statements concerning the use of tobacco by expectant mothers, printed in a church publication. It objects especially to the statement that "60 per cent of all babies born of cigarette-smoking mothers die before they reach the age of two." The Journal says this is unsupported by any known evidence. The medical profession, needless to say, is not urging women to smoke. It points out that its purpose is merely a scientific quest for the truth. The doctors are not directly concerned with smoking as a moral issue. There will be general agreement that "as to the physical harm done women or their offspring, if it is any greater than that done by the same habit to their husbands and brothers, it is high time that some scientific evidence be brought to show in what this particular harm consists." Many well informed people think it can be shown. But the evidence should be clear and unbiased. Exaggeration can do no good.

A crowd of fight fans at the Yankee Stadium in New York recently witnessed what a New York newspaper calls the least exhibition of boxing seen there in a long time. One of the participants was Loughran, retiring light-heavyweight champion, whom many experts consider the most skillful boxer in the ring today. And the crowd didn't like it. Spectators were visibly and audibly bored. The fight was called dull. What was the matter? No knock-out. No heavy slugging. No blood. Just pugilistic science and art, of the sort the patrons of this "manly art of self-defense" are supposed to love. What a fight crowd wants is to see a fight, not an exhibition of skill. It roars its approval for knock-downs and drag-outs. The old Roman arena crowds haven't changed much.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin, graciously postponed the start of the present transatlantic flight a whole day in order to permit two American women to join other passengers at Friedrichshafen. One of the women sped from Russia by airplane. The other hurried from the Mauretania as it docked at Cherbourg. Ordinarily Dr. Eckener guides his airship wholly by the dictates of the weather. Women are about as variable as weather, and if he begins to wait upon their convenience for his flights he will find it hard to keep to any schedule.

FOR SEASICKNESS.

When a ship's surgeon has had to handle thousands of cases of seasickness, you may be sure that he has tried everything known to medical science in his efforts to combat this distressing ailment.

I have spoken very recently about Dr. Oriel and his experience with dextrose (starch sugar) and after using it in a series of 1,000 cases he reports that "the effects" was better than he had obtained from any other of the many remedies he had tried. This counteracted the acidosis which is the cause of the vomiting and nausea.

Where the vomiting was so severe that the dextrose could not be retained it had been given success by means of the lower bowel or injection into a vein.

He advises a dosage of three teaspoonfuls.

The avoidance of fats and eating plenty of fruits and vegetables.

As you know it is agreed that it is a disturbance in the semicircular canals in the ears that enable us to balance ourselves, that usually causes the actual dizziness, which is followed by the nausea and later by vomiting.

Dr. Facilides, a European physician, therefore suggests that the prevention of dizziness, when in a swing or on board a vessel is to make the required counter movements in order to maintain your balance.

If you permit yourself to be involuntarily tossed about by the movements of the ship you will become dizzy.

If you will counteract the movements of the ship by swaying to the right when vessel goes to left, and vice versa, you can maintain your balance and thus prevent seasickness.

His thought is that taking medicines to quiet all motions is a mistake. If a drug is powerful enough to make you sleep it is bound to have an after effect. It also upsets the normal appetite and digestion.

So if you are taking a trip try and remember the suggestions of these two physicians. First to avoid hurry and worry before departing, to avoid fats, and to use the dextrose as suggested. Second to try and maintain your balance by counteracting the movements of the vessel.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

August 3, 1909.—Residents of Albany avenue decided to defray cost of oiling that street.

The first Lincoln cent was received in Kingston.

August 3, 1919.—The Rev. F. J. Waters, former pastor of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, died in Brooklyn.

Levi N. Harder died in Woodstock.

LAKE KATRINE.

Lake Katrine, August 3.—The regular meeting of the Grange will be held Monday evening, August 5. During the lecturer's hour the "Midnight Revellers", a band composed of players from the Pan-Am baseball team, will give a concert. The chairman of the August committee, Mrs. Harry Davis, requests all chairmen of the year committees to attend Monday night to complete arrangements for the bazaar to be held at the hall on August 30. A chicken supper will be served downstairs, the booths to be erected upstairs.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: Juliana's revealing note found—but before Helen and Richard can read it, Gregory and old Trafford dash into the room with news that Tom Pitt has vowed the village Richard Mary with Trafford to avenging. There as we learned that Brocklehurst has brought three ruffians respect to the village—presumably to abduct Helen. Richard reads Juliana's letter which declares that Pitt, Sheppard, or most probably, Brocklehurst killed Juliana because he had proof that Pitt is an escaped convict, Sheppard a former notorious highwayman and Brocklehurst a murderer. Trafford lays a plan to force a confession from Juliana's slayer.

Chapter 25

ANOTHER ROMANCE

HELEN was awakened from dreamless and much-needed sleep by gasping stifled sobs. Betty was weeping, crouched in chair beside the lattice. My lady, finding herself wideawake and thus cheated of her so desired rest, pounded her pillow.

"Crocodile!" cried she. "Will ye sob and rob me of my needed rest?"

"Oh, m-ma'm!" sobbed Betty. "Oh, d-dearest my lady—my poor heart is breakin' all becos o' Mr. Pitt . . . And despit frighted I be, all becos o' Mr. O-Oldcraft——"

"Wench—what d'ye mean?" demanded my lady.

For answer Betty proffered a tear-sodden, blotched and crumpled paper, whereon my lady read these words:

"Dear Betty forever fare well
Tis ended for I saw him last night a gory specktackle Mr. Julian tho' dead walks all bloody of a night crying for vengeance and it is beyond me to bear that am an innocent party. Sir Richard was there also and if ever a guilty face was his was. And blood upon the face Mr. Julian's horrible to see and pointed at me tho' innocent as babe. So if they question ask you who done it you may swear not me but Sir Richard was the fatal hand and cannot deny same. I suspected and now am sure. now and ever and fare well to thy—poor Tom."

"And good riddance, too!" nodded my lady. "So here, minx, here's the reward for peeping and prying! This wicked man teaches you treachery to your poor mistress, makes you try to betray me and now runs off and leaves you—now begone!"

"Oh, but ma'm, I'll vow I never betrayed nobody. Oh, never! I only did as he bade me and all for your ladyship's happiness."

"My happiness, girl? How pray?"

"Oh, ma'm, he adores the very shoes you walk in, the dust you treads in—he——"

"Who, girl, who?"

"My lord, ma'm, the Viscount Brocklehurst."

"That mincing fool!"

"Ah, my lady," begged Betty, "I meant no harm—pray be kind to poor, heart-broken me. . . ."

"Indeed," sighed my lady, softening, "I begin to think you more simple than wicked—now begone."

And so, after some while, my lady descended to her solitary breakfast, and presently going forth into the pleasant garden, there found the Duchess basking placidly beneath the cherry-tree.

"Well, me dear?"

"No, aunt—everything is most hateful and most especially—myself."

"And is that the way of it, then? A fit of blue gloom?"

"Ah, 'tis poor, paltry, miserable, hateful world, aunt!"

"Is he, me dear soul?"

Helen checked a sigh to stare.

"Is who—what?" she demanded.

"Richard—so he didn't kiss ye then last night—the blind fule that he is?"

My lady Helen lifted haughty chin in disdainful gesture, but the Duchess' quick eyes noted clearly rising flush in Helen's cheeks. Then suddenly my lady asked:

"But . . . but how know you of last night?"

"Faith, me child, didn't I watch ye creep off to him?"

"Oh, since it seems you thus pry upon my actions, you shall know I . . . accompanied Sir Richard to the Old Mill, last night, in quest of letter there hid for him by his cousin, Mr. Julian."

"Aha? And did ye find it?"

"I—found it."

"Och and did ye so? Well, well—what of 't?"

"As I say, aunt, 'twas I found it!"

"And you say my dear love, 'twas yourself found it?"

"'Twas I, dear aunt!" Here my lady hummed a snatch of song.

"Ah, shure, me dear angel," replied the Duchess, "there's times I years for the days ye could go so easily across me knee."

"Oh, madam!" shuddered my lady, "you become merely shocking!"

. . . Here my lady yawned as provokingly as possible, whereupon the Duchess merely sighed and spoke thus:

"Which reminds me—did ye see this terrible spectre last night, Helen? This ghost everybody's so full of, the same as see: the rogue Pitt into raving panic—the spirit o' Julian Gayford."

"Julian's ghost! So this was why Pitt fled? Oh, horrible! But, aunt, you never credit such tales—you don't believe in ghosts surely?"

"Well, no, me dear—not this morning. I think—I'll go walk among me vegetables!"

"Go, madam, but methinks you'll walk alone, for what's become o' your jobbing gardener—the odd man?"

"Faith, 'tis wondering I am."

"So am I—wondering how you should stoop to familiar talk with such as he—rude, half-witted creature."

"Hum!" murmured the Duchess. "And yet ye've got things in your head that look like eyes!"

* * * * *

The Marquis of Merivale sat beneath the cherry-tree and bored small holes in the turf with his cane. Meanwhile in shady parlour on cushioned settle crouched Angela, flushed and softly rebellious, while Helen, standing at the casement, glanced from her dainty loveliness to the distant figure of the Marquis.

"Weep!" commanded my lady between white teeth. "Sob, simpleton, sob, or I'll tear thy hair!"

"Oh, Helen—why art so strange, so cruel harsh to they poor friend?" gasped Angela, beginning to sob, "t-thou'rt a cruel c-eat!"

"I know it, miss!" sighed Helen. "But—now will you weep?"

"How may I he-help it and——"

"Good!" nodded my lady. "Then do thy weeping here, till I return—you hear me?"

"Yes—but—oh, Helen——"

But Helen was gone; forth and away she went hurrying yet gracious . . .

"Ah, Ned!" sighed she, "you expected my poor, sweet Angela—I left the gentle soul dissolved in piteous tears—such grief!"

"Eh—tears? Grief? But——"

"Indeed, the gentle creature is still breaking her heart for love."

"No? Oh! Is she though? Ha, plague on this flow Althorp!"

"'Tis not for my lord Althorp she doth pine, Ned."

"Why, then . . . —who?"

"Thy Angela pines for one who, though a poor-spirited, backward creature, is yet the creature of her darling choice. He waits on her, he sighs, ogles, languishes so desperately he will sometimes sit a-stabbing of little holes in the turf——"

"How? Why . . . ye powers! Can it be that she cares? For me——?"

"Devotedly, Ned! She weeps her loving heart out even now . . . in the parlour, Ned."

He sprang to his feet and walked eagerly towards the house. And thus he presently beheld a small, desolate figure outstretched upon the settle, slim, yet still solid enough despite her tears.

"Madam!" said he, and stepped lightly through the window. Angela, glancing up at him disclosed a sweet, tear-wet face.

"Angela?" he murmured, "dear heart!" and took her in his arms, tenderly but spirited . . .

Beholding all of which my lady Helen sighed for very sympathy and, turning away, wandered aimless across the wide lawn, and thus espied a rough-looking man who, now approaching, gave her a sealed letter; then staying for no question, grinned and hurried away. So, breaking the seal, she saw this:

"Madam, Having discovered certain property of yours at the Old Mill, left in yr. hurried flight therefrom last night, T. O. begs to inform same shall be returned and no questions asked if yr. ladyship will call for same at the Guyford Arms today at sunset. Come alone, and do not fail.
T. OLDCRAFT."

Twice she read this through; finally she hurried into the house and presently came forth, almost furtively, and draped in hooded cloak.

Will Helen be entrapped by these villains? The answer is in tomorrow's chapter.

EUROPEANS BUSY PROTESTING OTHER FELLOWS' PROTEST

Berlin, August 3 (AP).—Europe is a continent of protests nowadays.

All nations protest against having to pay their war debts; statesmen protest against each other's pronouncements; parties protest against each other's policies; minorities protest against coercion by their overlords; the Rhineland protests, the Saar protests; farmers protest against governmental neglect and the man in the street is forever protesting against the cost of living and high taxation.

All these protests evoke counter-protests, and these counter-protests lead to more protests, and so on endlessly.

The city of Danzig protested against the Versailles Treaty on its tenth anniversary. The Poles protested that the Danzigers had no right to protest. Then the Danzigers protested against the Polish protest, whereupon the Poles reprotested.

Protesting becomes a mania in individual cases. At Traunstein, Bavaria, a man committed suicide, because, he said in a note, he felt himself responsible for all the troubles of the Fatherland. And at Sonnenburg, a man in a state of nudity climbed on a roof, shouting: "I protest against the republic! I want my Kaiser back."

POLES AND GERMANS WAGE LINGUISTIC WAR

Danzig, Aug. 3 (AP).—When a Pole and a German in this Free City of Danzig discuss a town in the Polish corridor, which before the war was German territory, a linguistic duel is almost inevitable. The following dialog, overheard by an Associated Press correspondent, is typical.

Polish "fare" to German chauffeur: "Are the roads good from here to Gdynia?"

German chauffeur, pretending not to have understood: "Where did you say you wanted to go?"

Pole: "Gdynia."

German: "Ah, I see, Gdingen. Yes, the roads are quite good."

Pole: "How are the hotels at Gdynia?" (with marked emphasis on the Polish pronounciation).

German: "Gdingen (with equally marked German accent) has one or two quite modern hotels."

And it happens a hundred times a day.

PARIS SHELTERS AGED WOMAN FOE OF CZARS

By T. T. TOPPING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Paris (AP).—Paris, eventual haven of political refugees fleeing from the turmoil of revolutions that failed, has become the home of Catherine Brechko-Brechkovskia. She is "the grandmother of the Russian revolution," meaning that revolution which overthrew Nicholas II and established the ill-fated Kerensky regime in the land of the czars.

Besides being an uncompromising foe of czarism, she is equally opposed to bolshevism. She is certain that the present Union of Soviet Socialist Republics will fall, and that within a few years.

Fully one-third of her 86 years have been passed as a prisoner. Under the Czar she served 14 years at hard labor, followed by 13 more of mere exile in Siberia. She had 12 years of hiding in old Russia and six years of existence under Czarist police supervision, during which she managed to sandwich in two trips to the United States.

The "Babouchka," as she is fondly called by Russians of her political faith, is sanguine that the Bolshevik regime will collapse within a few years and that she, despite her years, will live to see it. She hopes to make a solemn re-entrance into the old Russian capital when that city shall have lost its sobriquet of Leningrad, and again become Petrograd.

"The grandmother of the revolution" has already enjoyed one triumphant return of that sort. That was in 1917 and it lasted eight months. But when the Bolsheviks entered, the "Babouchka" went out.

Living in a peaceful "pension" in the fashionable Passy quarter, the old lady, dressed in black, except for a white shawl about her shoulders, enjoys talking about her trips to the United States.

"I went to America for the first time in 1904," she said. "I had just completed a 14-year sentence at hard labor in Siberia and I received a very cordial welcome in the United States."

Asked if, coming after Siberia, any country would not have been heaven, she said:

"Yes but the Americans were really very nice to me. Effectively the Americans are real democrats but I found that they were very badly informed about Russian affairs."

In the same breath "Babouchka" said that she was introduced into American political circles by Emma Goldman, but evidently without any intention of establishing a co-relation between that and America's ignorance of things Russian.

She feels that she owes much gratitude to America because "it was owing to the pressure of public opinion from the United States, that I was halted on the road to my third exile in Siberia and released at Irkutsk in 1915."

That the Soviet jail is the most abominable thing on earth and that Dante might have picked up there many features for his Inferno, is her firm conviction.

"The Bolsheviks have transformed an earthly paradise into a gigantic cemetery, the granary of the world into a country of famine. They are bound to succumb," she concluded.

LOCUST SWARMS STRIP RICH CORSICAN FIELDS

Ajaccio, Corsica, Aug. 3 (AP).—An invasion of locusts unprecedented in the history of the island, has made a clean sweep of the most fertile region in the extreme south.

Arriving in swarms so dense that they obscured the sky, the locusts in two days devoured all the wheat and vegetables and stripped bare the oak, cork and olive groves and vineyards for which the district is famous.

As the stricken area is the richest cattle raising center in the island, the inhabitants, in addition to losing their crops, are faced with the problem of finding fodder for their stock.

AROUND THE WORLD

Athens (AP).—Premier Venizelos in an address to the naval cadets said he hoped the League of Nations would be able to effect permanent world peace, but in the meantime Greece must develop a navy capable of insuring her territorial integrity and independence.

Messina, Italy (AP).—Excavations in the Piazza-Amerina uncovered a rich mosaic of the Roman period and an elaborate fountain in white stone. They are supposed to have adorned a sumptuous villa, evidently destroyed during the Servile wars.

Moscow (AP)—Work was begun this year on 1,140 miles of new railroad in Russia. The Commisariat of Transportation plans to start 2,970 more miles of new roads within the next twelve months, spending $147,500,000 on this development. Much of the new construction is in the far north.

Bordeaux, France (AP).—A novel in praise of good wine won a prize of 10,000 francs (about $400) for Paul Berthelot, a Bordeaux editor. Six wine firms contributed to the prize, which is to be an annual offering.

San Juan, Porto Rico (AP).—Night life in San Juan was not suffient in volume nor free enough with its money to support an all-night restaurant which chose the name "Noctturno" and opened at 9 p. m. After a few weeks of mounting losses the place closed.

Ancona, Italy (AP).—A provincial "political secretary" of the fascist party is a public official within the meaning of the law, and therefore insults to him are punishable in the same way as in the case of other officials, the local penal court decided. It sentenced a man of Osimo to 35 days imprisonment for defaming the fascist secretary of that town.

Mexico City (AP).—Because of a campaign against talkies in English recently started by a big moving picture theatre here it has been decided to show a film both with and without speech and let the audience decide which version it prefers. The anti-English campaign is based upon a desire to perpetuate Spanish as the national language.

Rio Janeiro (AP).—A committee on arrangements is already busy making plans for the fourth Pan-American Congress of Architects, which is to be held here from June 19 to 30 next year. More than 300 architects from the western hemisphere are expected to attend.

Rome (AP)—Unemployment in Italy decreased 33 per cent in 1928 and thus far this year. A vast program of public works, notably on the roads, was declared responsible for the change by the Fascist authorities.

Healing Balm

The balm of Gilead from the earliest antiquity had a reputation as a healing agent. The people of Gilead prepare it even at the present time for the benefit of pilgrims to the Holy land. This, however, is thought to be less likely to be the true balm than the juice of the styrax (Styrax officalis), a common plant of Gilead, which in ancient times was much used for healing.

Classified Ads Used to Promote Fraudulent Home Work Schemes

HOME WORK SCHEMER MAKES $7,000; WORKERS MADE ONLY $300

When his activities were halted by a postal fraud order, George W. Miller, proprietor of the Artcraft Card Company, New York, N. Y., was only able to show that he had paid out $300 to prospective home workers as against $7,000 received in a period of about two months. Miller contacted with the public by means of classified advertisements. His scheme was the card decorating proposition; a fake money making scheme that has been used to swindle opportunity seekers for many years.

Under the classification "Help Wanted—Female", Miller advertised for workers, stating that $7 a hundred was paid for coloring cards at home. This was described as an opportunity for beginners and prospects were urged to communicate with the Artcraft Company for particulars. In his follow-up literature, Miller stated that almost any woman and girl can use a brush and that his plan would give them an opportunity of adding substantially to their incomes.

"Plenty of time is allowed on this work," his letter stated. "Experience is unnecessary and with a little practice you can average from $25 to $60 a week the year round."

Miller then proceeded to describe the outfit which he would send to prospective workers for the small sum of $1. This consisted of 15 cards, a brush, watercolors, and full instructions. "When you have colored 200 cards," his letter continued "you get back your $1 and your outfit is FREE."

When questioned by postal inspectors concerning the statement "almost every woman or girl can use a brush" and "substantially" to her "income", Miller admitted that of the 7,000 persons who had purchased his outfit only 102 had qualified as producers of "saleable" work and that of this number 42 had not been paid any wages up to that time. Miller said that he had paid out only about $300 and that the largest amount paid to any individual worker was $20.

The outfit for which workers paid $1, according to Miller, cost him approximately 17 cents and consists of 15 cards, a small brush, 10 so-called "color films" fastened together, and a sheet of instructions.

The postal inspector who investigated this case found that while Miller had stated in his follow-up letter that "experience is unnecessary" authorities on the subject of water coloring list experience, native talent, knowledge of color harmony as well as other qualifications as fundamentally necessary in the production of acceptable water color work. As compared with volumes which have been published by authorities on the subject of water coloring, Miller set forth his instructions on a single printed page, 7 inches by 10 inches, with only a small portion of this space actually devoted to instructing the would-be worker how to paint.

When workers did send their first cards to Miller they were subjected to scrutiny from the concern's "inspector" who was provided, for convenience, with form letters which contained many varieties of criticism. In each, however, the need for practice and persistence was stressed now that the remittance of $1 for the outfit had been received. Workers were told that "patience and perseverance" on their part would make each "one of the good workers whom we desire."

According to the evidence Miller did not need nor did he desire "good workers." He admitted that he had no market for such cards as are "accepted" or "salesable" and could only dispose of them by advertising so-called premium offers or by means of lottery devices.

The inspector found that Miller's enterprise, like many other so-called work at home schemes, made its strongest appeal to cripples, widows, shut-ins, and other persons who could ill afford to lose their money. Miller admitted that he preferred not to have home workers in the city of New York as he feared they would consume too much of his time by calling at his office although he was fully aware that all the "help" he needed and more was readily available in that city alone.

The investigation showed that the Artcraft Card Company had a small suite of rooms in New York and that five young girls earning from $5 to $18 a week were employed. One of these girls acted as "inspector" of the work done by home workers, but when in doubt as to the acceptability of the work it was referred to Miller. Remittances at the rate of from 125 to 135 a day were being received by Miller when the fraud order was issued.

Men and women who are in need of earning extra money at home and who look to the classified advertising columns for legitimate opportunities for work have been victimized by a variety of schemes. These frauds take only small amounts from individuals but, in the aggregate, the people who operate them take hundreds of thousands of dollars annually with comparative safety. The card gilding scheme has been responsible for great losses to women. Other large scale promotions that use classified advertising are the "Apron Sewing" scheme, the "Foreign Employment" racket, fake "Agent" propositions, demanding a purchase of a sample, "Circular Mailing" frauds, "Clipping Bureau" scheme, "Fountain Pen" scheme, "Envelope Addressing" schemes, etc. The details of these frauds are discussed in other articles of this series.

The National Better Business Bureau, Inc., New York, N. Y., maintains a special section to investigate classified advertising and aid newspapers in protecting their readers. The bureau not only reports on individual schemers, but supplies newspapers with basic facts about typical schemes and makes it possible for responsible publications to censor fraudulent advertising.

When a torpedo is fired from a submarine the outer door of the torpedo tube opens and water pours in up to the inside door of the tube. Mistletoe Under Ban

A world-wide tradition has it that the mistletoe was the tree from which Eve plucked the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden, and the tree was punished by having its fruit reduced to berry size and being forbidden to grow in the ground. All attempts to raise a tree from seed have failed. It remains a parasite, feeding on the life of other trees. But its other use makes us forget its bad habit in that respect.

Farming in New York State

(By The Associated Press.)

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Paris green makes a good poison for cut worms, but like children with castor oil they have to be tempted to take it, according to experts at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

"For quick and effective control of cut worms," say the entomologists at the station, "an inexpensive poison bait is recommended, either broadcast in the rows or, in the case of small fruits, sprinkled about the base of each plant. The following mixture will suffice for five acres: Bran, 20 pounds; paris green, one pound; cheap syrup, two quarts; three lemons, and three and one-half gallons of water.

"The bran and paris green are mixed dry. The juice of the lemons is squeezed into the water and the peel and pulp chopped to fine bits and added to the water. The syrup is then dissolved in the water and fruit juice and the liquid stirred into the bran thoroughly in order to dampen it evenly.

"If a smaller quantity is wanted, the amounts of the different ingredients may be reduced in proportion to the quantity desired. It is usually better to apply the poison bait in the evening, for cut worms are night feeders and the bait will thus be in a fresher condition than if applied earlier in the day."

"Don't prune grape vines in the summer," is the advice of Richard Wellington, horticulturist at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

Summer pruning, regarded by some vineyardists as desirable because of opening up the vines so that sunlight can reach the fruit, actually is harmful, according to Mr. Wellington, as it delays maturity of the fruit and tends to reduce the sugar content of the grapes. He added:

"Just what effect summer pruning will have in the next season's crop and just how it will affect winter hardiness of the vines, it is too early to state from these tests. It is probable, however, that the vine as well as the fruit stored up less food, such as starches, and hence would be more subject to adverse winter conditions.

"Since the fruit of the summer-pruned grapes in the tests on the station grounds was in no way superior to unpruned grapes, either in size or appearance; in all the late varieties were much more immature, and in all varieties but two contained less sugar; summer pruning is condemned as unprofitable and, in fact, injurious to the vine."

U. P. Hedrick, director, and F. H. Hall, L. R. Hawthorn and Alwin Berger, horticulturists of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, have just completed a book intended as the first of three volumes on "The Vegetables of New York." The book lists more than 1,640 varieties of peas and describes many varieties in detail, illustrated with 24 full-page color plates.

ALL CONFESSIONAL SECRETS GUARDED BY ITALIAN CODE

Rome (AP).—Protestant clergymen and Jewish rabbis will hereafter enjoy the same privilege as Roman Catholic priests in being able to plead "the professional secret" when declining to give testimony before the Italian courts. This is made clear in the second portion of the new Code of Penal Procedure issued by Minister of Justice Rocco.

As the code will be introduced in the Senate and Chamber next autumn as a government bill and since the Fascists have an overwhelming majority in the upper house and a practical unanimity in the lower, it should pass without question. What it will do is to secure to non-Catholic ministers the same right of keeping confessions inviolate that has long been tacitly granted to priests of the Roman church.

The code's text says the new disposition is in strict accord with the Lateran treaties. The text specifically exempts from giving testimony on confidential matters "the ministers of the state religion (i. e., the priests), maintaining also the guarantee for the ministers of those cults permitted in the state." It is further added that the privileged position obtained by the Roman church, owing to the concordat that forms part of the Lateran accords, does not signify "a diminution of the liberty and guarantees" enjoyed by other sects.

Cardinals, under the new code, have a peculiar privilege. If they are cited as witnesses in legal action, their testimony may be taken at the domiciles, since they are considered on a par with princes of the blood royal and high officials of the state. The idea behind this provision is that every Cardinal is a potential sovereign, being eligible to election as Pope on the death of the reigning pontiff, and therefore comparable with an Italian prince in line of succession to the throne.

ALBANIA AGITATES PARTITION OF FEUDAL HOLDINGS

Tirana, Albania, Aug. 3 (AP).—Albania, struggling under the feudal system whereby land is owned by the few and worked by the many, is debating a proposed law which would split up the vast holdings of the "begs," or rich landowners, and give farms to the peasantry.

At present the landlords have undisputed legal possession of all arable land in the kingdom. The peasants who cultivate it do just enough work to produce the minimum crops demanded by their feudal chiefs plus enough to keep their own bodies and souls together.

Although the country's chief foods are of agricultural origin and there are only 900,000 people in the whole realm, the native farms do not come close to meeting the demands. Almost every year grain must be imported from America, Australia or Canada.

One reason is that the soil is poor. Another is that it is incompletely cultivated. A third is that railways, roads and other marketing facilities are lacking.

Division of the land among the poverty stricken peasantry would not, of course, cure all these ills. But it is being agitated as a necessary step toward making Albania self supporting.

The practical difficulty in the way of realizing it is the fact that about two-thirds of the elected representatives in the national legislature are "begs." They have indicated that they intend to fight strenuously against any such revolutionary legislation so far as it affects land ownership.

RESTORATION OF GAELIC COSTLY TO FREE STATE

Dublin (AP).—It costs the Irish Free State half a million dollars yearly to enforce its compulsory use of the Irish language among young professional men and women.

The figure was announced by the Finance Minister though opponents of the policy contend that the cost, directly and indirectly, is much greater. The requirements does not apply to present lawyers, doctors and others but only to boys and girls under 15 who are in professional schools.

Eamon De Valera's party is as eager for restoration of the Gaelic tongue as is the government and the opposition is believed to have little chance of success.

Travel in the Sahara

Concrete guide towers have been erected by the French in some sections of the Sahara. They are about 22 miles apart, that is, about a day's journey. There are also "borghes," or small adobe resting places where shelter may be obtained. The keepers also supply travelers with eggs, as well as coffee and goats' milk.

TRIO OF EVILS BESET MEXICO, SAY LEADERS

Mexico City, Aug. 3 (AP).—Alcoholism, carrying of weapons and an imperfect jury system are the three great evils of Mexico, according to a group of prominent business men and social leaders who have formed an organization to right these wrongs.

In combatting alcoholism they will cooperate in a drive already initiated by President Portes Gil, and in warring on the tendency of the average citizen to carry a pistol or knife they will be seconding a movement started recently by Chief of Police Valente Quintana of Mexico City, who has petitioned the president for right to fine or imprison weapon-toters.

The group will seek to bring about a change in the penal code to make only citizens of certain qualifications eligible for jury duty. The present system allows persons of low mental capacity to serve on the juries.

JOHNNY DOEG AGAIN IN TENNIS SPOTLIGHT

Seabright, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP).—Johnny Doeg, hailed two years ago as a Davis Cup find and a coming national champion, is back in the tennis spotlight with a brilliant victory in the final of the time-honored Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club Invitation Tournament.

The manner of his winning over the veteran Richard N. Williams 2nd, on these courts yesterday indicated that the young Californian is steadily improving his game. Pitted against one of the greatest net players in the game the young Californian won 6-3, 7-5, 8-6.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The bull movement on the stock market assumed extraordinarily violent proportions in the utilities during today's two-hour session.

An impressive assortment of the utility stocks was hurled up 5 to 18 points to record levels, and the entire list was buoyed up by this demonstration. Gains were reduced somewhat by realizing in the final sales.

Some profit-taking was inspired by the overnight announcement of a gain of more than $400,000,000 in stock exchange member borrowings during July, but it was readily absorbed as bullish enthusiasm was held at a high point. In general, however, the public held aloof from the market. Trading was but moderately active, total sales for the session approximating 1,750,000 shares.

The recent violent bidding up of high priced issues has caused concern in some quarters lest it may be a shield for distribution. This theory, however, has not been generally accepted, because of the lack of public participation in the market. Commission houses, while still advising their customers to exercise great caution, have in the past two or three days extended their lists of buying suggestions.

The easier tone in call money yesterday which held at 10 per cent, caused greater optimism regarding the credit outlook, although the return of the month-end checks to the banks for collection next week is expected to keep money tight, and with growing commercial demands, bankers hold out no hope of any substantial decline in money rates for some time. Wall street, however, is expecting the federal reserve system to make credit available for commercial uses in increasing amounts.

Westinghouse Electric wrested the leadership from General Electric, surging up nearly 16 points to a record price above 230. Buying of this stock was inspired by rumors of a stock splitup, reports of expansion of plant, and excellent first half earnings.

Laclede Gas was again a high flier in the utilities, mounting 18 points to a record price. Brooklyn Union Gas, General Public Service, Peoples Gas, Consolidated Gas, Southern California Edison and Pacific Lighting were among issues surging up 3 to more than 10 points to new peaks.

The Week in Wall Street

(By Stanley O. Prenosil)
(Associated Press Financial Editor.)

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—A broad upward movement of stock prices took place this week in the face of another month-end credit stringency. The outburst of buying which carried many of the leading public utility and railroad shares to record high levels, is believed to have received its chief impetus from the unusually favorable character of the first half year earnings statements of leading corporations, and the predictions of leading executives that current prosperity would carry well into the second half of the year.

Early in the week bear traders made strenuous efforts to unsettle the general list by hammering supposedly vulnerable issues, but they finally gave up their attempts when they discovered they were unable to dislodge any appreciable volume of long holdings. This encouraged a resumption of pool activities, although the volume of trading was only moderate because of the cautious attitude of many small traders and investors.

The index of fifty leading industrials compiled by the Standard Statistics Company for the Associated Press, showed a net gain of six points during the week. The index of 20 public utilities ran up nearly sixteen points or nearly 120 points above the year's low. The railroad index showed a gain of only one point.

Due to the month-end requirements, and the expiration of stock subscription rights, call money was scarce during the week, reaching 12 per cent on Thursday, but holding at 10 on Friday. Time loans commanded as high as nine per cent for the shorter maturities. Federal Reserve brokers loans rose $52,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday, and the stock exchange announced that total member loans increased more than $400,000,000 during July. The bank of England suffered further large losses of gold to the continent, but did not increase its discount rate.

Public utility stocks gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of strength, with some rather sensational gains in the highpriced shares, in reflection of the New York state attorney general's decision upholding the legality of recent power mergers. Many of the power stocks are now selling double the year's lows, with a few showing an appreciation in quoted values of several hundred per cent.

Railroad stocks started forward as the week closed with the buying centering in the so-called investment issues. Despite the heavy competition afforded by motor truck and motor bus traffic, the freight loadings of the leading carriers show a progressive increase. While little credence is given in rail circles to reports that the Interstate Commerce Commission will present a modified plan of railroad consolidations, there is a rather general feeling that steady progress is being made in a realignment of roads.

The semi-annual report of the United States Steel Corporation showing earnings in excess of $11 a share, the largest in peacetime history, brought a flood of buying into the steel stocks. United States Steel Common, Bethlehem and a few other moved into new high ground.

American Telephone, after a sharp drop on the announcement that the management contemplated no new financing, tore ahead into new high ground. Radio was marked up briskly at the expense of an overcrowded short interest.

TWO KILLED IN GUN BATTLE WITH BANDITS

Kansas City, Aug. 3 (AP).—Two unidentified men were killed and James Dwyer, patrolman, was wounded slightly last night in a gun battle which occurred when police corralled bandits in the basement of an apartment house after following them from the robbery of a filling station.

Dwyer was shot in the arm when he and two other officers started into the basement after the men. More than fifty shots were exchanged before the bandits fell before charges from riot guns.

VISITING PASTORS AT CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH

The pulpit at Clinton Avenue M E. Church will be filled on Sundays during the month of August as follows:

August 4, the Rev. M. O. Bennett of Delhi.

August 11, the Rev. James Madison, Glasco.

August 18, the Rev. J. H. Veersteeg, D. D., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

August 25, the Rev. W. H. Austin, pastor of Woodcrest M. E. Church, New York city.

Rigid Tests for Drivers

In Berlin candidates for places as bus drivers must pass a series of very rigid tests. When the applicant has complied with all other requirements he is placed at a steering wheel and confronted with a moving picture screen in which appears a procession of busses and other vehicles, a runaway horse, some old ladies scurrying back and forth and an occasional "jay walker." If the candidate avoids all these obstacles satisfactorily he gets the job.

Tree Belfries

Many of the first Christian church bells were fastened in tall trees that stood near the church, writes Satis N. Coleman in his book, "Bells." Even today, in some villages of Russia and other countries, the bell hangs on the branches of a tall tree in the churchyard. In Iceland the bell usually is placed in the "lych gate," a covered entrance to the graveyard. The tree belfry once was common in Scotland and Ireland.

Five Simple Rules for Keeping Good Health

Practical inference from the views of an eminent physician are so simple that they are almost trite, and yet they are fundamental. If you want to keep out of the repair shop and make your own body "tick" vigorously and regularly, don't rely on drugs, but co-operate with nature in five ways:

1—Drink an abundance of water to keep your cells in condition.

2—Sleep at least eight hours out of each 24 to maintain your batteries.

3—Regulate your diet carefully so your body will be adequately nourished, and don't "dig your grave with your teeth" by overeating.

4—Get plenty of fresh air, especially when you are sleeping.

5—Exercise regularly to rebuild worn tissues, increase blood circulation and develop new cells.

If these five simple rules were honestly and thoroughly observed for several generations as vigorously as the Jews have obeyed the laws of hygiene handed down by Moses, druggists and doctors would eventually be obliged to seek other occupations, and the world would be populated by a very much superior race of human beings.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Omission or Usage of Comma Highly Important

A jury in New Jersey that heard the evidence against two men accused of murder returned a verdict finding one guilty of murder in the first degree, and the other guilty of murder in the second degree with a recommendation of leniency. A comma separated the two findings, and this was held by another court to prevent the recommendation for mercy from applying to the first degree finding, though the attorney for the killer insisted that a semicolon should have been used if that were the jury's intention.

Commas are, therefore, seen to be important whether used or omitted. It is a curious situation when courts are called on to decide the meaning of a contract drawn, or at least revised, by an attorney, especially such a contract as an insurance policy which may control the distribution of thousands of dollars.

Pepper Popular

Black pepper is the most widely used of all spices. There was a queer medieval belief that black pepper came from a forest that had been burned over. When means of transportation were not well developed, and when the monotony of a smaller choice of foods made spices even more desirable than they are now, there must have been a tremendous interest in the caravans from the East that made spices one of their chief commodities. Pepper they brought from the East Indies, although it is now cultivated in other tropical countries. It is the dried fruit of a vinelike tree.

What, Ever?

"Here you are, then," wrote Oliver Wendell Holmes, on the subject of rowing, in the year 1858, "here you are, then, afloat with a body a rod and a half long, with arms, or wings, as you may choose to call them, stretching more than 20 feet from tip to tip, every volition of yours extending as perfectly into them as if your spinal cord ran down the center of your boat, and the nerves of your arms tingled as far as the broad blades of your oars.

"This, in sober earnest, is the nearest approach to flying that man has ever made or perhaps ever will make."—Autocrat of the Breakfast Table.

Operas

Grove's Dictionary of Music gives the following information concerning the difference between certain types of opera: Comic opera—a term used indiscriminately to denote a musico-dramatic work of an amusing nature. It is not the English equivalent to the French opera-comique, for that term includes works into which seriousness and even tragedy may enter; the type is rather the opera bouffe. Light opera is a term often employed for works in which sentiment counts for more than high spirits, although the latter is not necessarily absent. Grand opera is an opera with continuous music and of a serious nature.

National Forests Popular

Several million every year take advantage of the recreational facilities offered by the national forests. This phase of the administration of the forests is being developed by the forest service in accord with the policy of making these properties of the people serve them to the best advantage. Through trails and roads the forests are made accessible, says the Forestry Almanac. Within them there are many lakes and brooks, admirable for fishing and camping. Game is found in comparative abundance and streams are stocked with fish.

Only a Dozen Bananas

Robert made his first week-end trip alone to visit his aunt in a nearby town. The aunt was aroused in the night on the day of his arrival by a very sick boy.

Observing symptoms of an overloaded stomach, she said:

"Robert, did you buy any trash and eat it on the train coming out"

"No, auntie, I didn't have a thing except a dozen bananas," replied the distressed lad.

Houston Saw Clearly

The rapid growth of Texas recalls the prophecy of Sam Houston in 1832 that Texas was capable of supporting 10,000,000 persons. At that time there were fewer than 1,000 Americans in the Lone Star state.

Mr. Kukuk had been in failing health for some time and it was thought that an operation would aid him in gaining his health and strength, but the trouble proved too deep-seated and he failed to rally. Mr. Kukuk established The Funeral Home at 167 Tremper avenue, and became widely and favorably known as a funeral director. He was a man of quiet and unassuming demeanor and made and held friends easily. Fraternally he was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M. At the time of his death he was a member of the church council of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street. At the time the church was organized Mr. Kukuk was one of the charter members and during the intervening years he never lost his interest in the work of the church. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

GERMAN DOCTOR-BOXER WINS FIRST BOUT IN 80 SECONDS

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Ludwig Haymann, the German doctor-boxer who is following in the footsteps of his famous predecessor, Max Schmeling, toward the riches of American rings, has made a debut in this country almost as brilliant as that of "Der Max".

The "Herr Doktor" opened his campaign at the Long Beach Stadium last night against Eddie Johnson of Boston and ended it half a minute later by a knockout. The fight was over so quickly the ringsiders had little chance to judge Haymann's ability. He clipped in two left jabs at the start and followed with a right cross to chin for a knockout.

SAYS PAPER SUITS AT $2 WILL COME NEXT

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—The most question of how mere man can obtain some sort of equality with the opposite sex in the matter of summer attire, a question that has brought forth advocates of everything from pajamas to barrels, has another answer. It comes from Waldemar Kaempfert director of the Rosenwald Industrial Museum.

Man's enslavement to fashion, says Kaempfert, will be broken by paper suits, costing about $2 apiece and thrown away, after about two weeks' wear.

"The fibers," Kaempfert says, will be made of paper and will be spun like cotton or wool, then woven into attractive patterns. Instead of being sewn together they will be glued. A man will step into a clothes shop, where an expert tailor will in a few minutes drape strips of paper about his form and then fasten them with fish glue.

"Such a suit—unlike a paper towel—will be unaffected by rain and holds its shape for at least two weeks, after which it can be thrown away and a new one purchased.

Taxiing Around The Airports

Just 20 minutes from Broadway is an airport which will afford the hurrying air traveler a quicker entry into New York city. The field, Holmes airport, in the borough of Queens on Long Island, just off the East river, is being prepared for surfacing. It already is available for use.

A 160 acre tract for an airport has been donated to the city of Muncie, Ind., by Abbott Johnson, chairman of the municipal aviation commission. The site was declared by airport experts to be the best available there. The money appropriated by the city for purchase of a site will be used for development and facilities. The city expects to acquire an additional 40 acres.

The Ryan airport at Parsons, Kas., is to be enlarged and equipped with more facilities. A department of commerce airport expert is to be sent there to aid in the expansion plans.

The Grosse Ile airport at Detroit has been designated as a permanent airport of entry by the interdepartmental committee in charge of airports of entry. Temporary designations have been given the Ford airport at Dearborn, Mich., and to the Canadian Gateway airport at Newport, Vt. Airports at Grand Forks and Minot, N. D., and Crookston, Minn., are under consideration to accommodate international commercial air traffic between Winnipeg and the Twin Cities.

The department of commerce has decided that before a privately owned light may be certified as an airway beacon, it must be approved by municipal aviation authorities and by air transport companies operating in the vicinity, as an aid to aerial navigation.

Republicans to Hold Caucuses

This evening the Republican party caucuses will be held in the various wards of the city for the purpose of electing three delegates from each voting district to attend the Republican county convention to be held in the Auditorium Theatre on Saturday morning, August 10.

Monday evening caucuses will be held for the purpose of electing five delegates from each ward to attend the Republican city convention to be held at the court house on Monday evening, August 12.

A parade of new taxicabs, almost a half-mile long, will move from Pontiac, Mich., to Chicago, some time in August, as a result of one of the largest single sales in taxicab history. The General Taxicab Sales (not Inc.) has contracted for the purchase of 1,500 "town-car" models of the new 1930 "General Cabs," products of the Taxicab Division of the General Motors Truck Company, to fill orders of driver-operators of Chicago and vicinity. Drivers of the first sixty cabs to come off in production line will go to Pontiac in a body and will drive their new cabs back to Chicago in a huge procession.

In command of a fleet of fifteen motor cars that have crammed more than 20,000 miles into a few months of touring, H. R. Schaeffer, commander of the Goodrich Silver Fleet, has become an authority on traffic regulations. Commander Schaeffer is, perhaps, the best informed man in the country today on the variation of motor traffic regulations in relation of the various states to one another. His experience has convinced him that the solution of the traffic problem, as applied to motor cars, exists in a national code of safety regulations.

IVE BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN.

"Big Bill" Freeman Gets Decision Over Georgie Neron

"Big Bill" Freeman, the West Point soldier, who holds the heavyweight championship of the New York National Guard, bolstered his record by defeating Georgie Neron, the husky Greek of New York, in the main ten-rounder staged Friday night at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Freeman, who spotted Neron 12½ pounds, was very cautious for the first two rounds, apparently because of his debut as a fighter outside the National Guard ring. On the other hand, the colored soldier was having one of the hardest men he ever fought. Neron topped the beam at 195½ pounds. "Big Bill" weighed in at 183.

The first two rounds showed Freeman that he was not mixing it with a man out of his class and he waded into Neron during the third round. He straightened the big Greek with several lefts, his best wallop landing as the round was about to end.

The fourth round saw Freeman hail his opponent with a fusillade of lefts to the head that made Neron realize he would have to stop the attack or take a pronounced shellacking. Neron solved the problem in the fifth and prevented Freeman from doing much in the round. Excessive clinching marked the sixth stanza.

Neron got over his best blow of the fight in the seventh round. He landed a terrific left on Freeman's forehead which checked the negro in his eagerness to wage a fight at close quarters. There were few blows struck in the eighth, while the ninth round saw Freeman throw punches from all directions. Few of them hit the mark however, owing to Neron's defense. Freeman pummeled Neron in the tenth, the white man getting in one effective blow, a hard right at the outset of the round.

Zinna-Mathisky Fight Draw.

The semi-final bout between Nick Zinna of this city and Harry Matinsky of New York, was pronounced a draw after a fast and furious scrap. The local boy put all he had into the first round and peppered Matinsky with wallops that made the New Yorker realize he had a fight on his hands.

Matinsky dug in at the outset of the second round and rained Nick with blows that won the round for the clever Matinsky. In the third and fourth Harry had Zinna in several bad situations. At this point it looked as though Matinsky might finish the fight there and then.

Zinna came back in the fifth and sixth and with an attack that saved him from defeat. He started the fifth with a vicious onrush that Matinsky checked with a hard left to the chin. Nick weathered the blow and put up a stiff battle for the rest of the fight.

Frenchy Duwig, a local boy substituting for Irish Johnny Curtin, succumbed to the attack of Pete Kivaris in the second frame of their scheduled six rounder. Referee Emmet Ryan stopped the fight after Duwig hit the canvas four times, twice in the first round and the same number of times in the second.

The first six rounder brought together Willie Samelo of New York and Mickey Perriera of the same city. Samelo took the decision after a fight that proved one of the best ever staged at the Fair Grounds. Samelo the possessor of a very worthy right hand punch floored Perriera for the count of nine in the second round. He put up a strong battle in the rounds that followed but at no time was he master of the situation.

It took Joie Carpino, popular Kingston boxer, just two minutes and 35 seconds of the third round to dispose of Johnny Vasta of New York. The referee stopped the fight when Vasta went down for the third time from Carpino's attack.

Carpino might have finished Vasta in the second round had it not been for the bell. Timer George N. Brown sounded the gong at the count of five and Johnny was assisted to his corner. Carpino went to work on him at the outset of the third round to successfully follow up his advantage.

James Payne defeated Freddie Williams in the four-round curtain raiser. Both were colored boys of New York.

The fight fans, who turned out in a goodly number to the Fair Grounds show, were informed by Announcer Samuel J. Riber that Charlie Von Reeden and Benny Brostoff would appear on the card of Friday night, August 9. Whether the boys will be opponents was not stated.

Manuel Quintero, the boy who beat Joe Glick at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night in such a decisive manner was introduced to the fans as "the next world's lightweight champion". Tony Leto, who beat Georgie Goldberg in a bout supporting Quintero's, also was introduced. He was presented as "the logical contender for the featherweight crown".

Rufino Alverez, a stable mate of Quintero and Leto in the Eddyville boxers' camp, was presented as the heavyweight who would fight the winner of the main go. Whether he will be matched with Freeman for next week's show is not yet known.

Canzoneri Fails to Dethrone Mandell

Chicago, Aug 3 (AP).—Tony Canzoneri, "The Chesty One," has gone the way of all featherweights who become too ambitious and Sammy Mandell, master ringman and boxer, still is the lightweight champion of the world.

Attempting to achieve what Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Dundee and many other featherweight compatriots failed to do, the flat-nosed New York Italian gamely challenged the Rockford sheik for his heavier crown in the Chicago Stadium last night, but received nothing but a neat boxing lesson, the decision going to Mandell after ten stirring rounds.

Mandell won mainly by speed and boxing ability. After losing the first two rounds because of Tony's rushes and right hand attacks that caught him off guard, the champion calmly cuffed his rival with his long left and choppy rights to pile up a decisive margin.

Tony had a chance only in those first two rounds, and it was the best chance any challenger ever had against Mandell. But he couldn't follow it up. Mandell's defensive craft nullified Canzoneri's fiery charges and as often as he landed the New Yorker saw his own punches fly into space.

Mandell's accurate left hand, called the best in the business, fired sharply and true to the challenger's face and at the final gong Tony's face was well puffed up. No blood was shed by the challenger, however, even though Sammy concentrated his attack on the cut over Tony's eye suffered in his first bout as a lightweight against Phil McGraw in New York three weeks ago.

Tony surprised by coming out in the first round and scoring a series of stiff rights to the face. Sammy was cold and he went into a clinch when in danger. His left wasn't well oiled and absence from the ring had hurt his aim. As a consequence, Canzoneri for a time made good his boast of being able to keep away from Mandell's best weapon.

The third was the turning point and that session the real Mandell went to work. Canzoneri didn't have a chance thereafter, but he did plunge in hoping to land one paralyzing wallop to the chin.

Davy Barry, central figure of the much disputed "fourteen count" of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, was referee and cast his vote for Canzoneri. Judges Ed. Klein and Phil Collins agreed on Mandell as winner. Collins was third man in the ring when Mandell won the championship from Rocky Kansas here on July 4, 1926.

More than 24,000 witnessed the fight. An unofficial statement of receipts placed the gross receipts at $165,000. Of this sum, Mandell receives 40 per cent and Canzoneri 20 per cent.

The champion was far from satisfied with his performance even though he won, while the challenger said he thought he had won.

"I just couldn't get started," Sammy said. "I was cold at the start and not until the final round did I feel anything like my old self. But I won, and that was my plan."

If Mandell carries out his announced intentions, he will next attempt to get a match with Jackie Fields for the welterweight title. He outpointed Fields before he won the welterweight title and is confident he can repeat.

PETRONE-HUMPHRIES IN MAIN WOODCLIFF BOUT.

Billy Roche, Woodcliff Park matchmaker, who is bringing some of fistiana's top-notchers to the Poughkeepsie arena, has slated Dominick Peterone and Billy Humphries for the main go at the park Tuesday night, August 6.

In matching these two featherweights Roche believes that he has the combination to pack Woodcliff Park stadium to capacity. Petrone was introduced from the ring last Tuesday and received a big hand. It was no easy matter to pick an opponent for him because of his defeats over many good scrappers, including California Joe Lynch, Wee Willie Spencer, Murray Fuchs, Eddie O'Dowd, Church and Suggs. He also battled on even terms with Pete Zivic. Humphries got the match only after Billy Roche thoroughly combed the ranks.

Two other 10-round bouts are on the card. Jack Wilson of New York and Joe Salino of Brooklyn are in the semi-final while Harry Crotty meets Emil Rossi in another bout.

Industrials Win Over Bushwicks

The Kingston Industrials defeated the Saugerties Bushwicks 7 to 2 at that place Friday night. This is the second time that the Kingston team took over the Bushwicks.

Peters, who was doing mound work for the Industrials, had the Saugerties eating out of the palm of his hand. He allowed but one hit. His control slipped up on him occasionally which resulted in two runs crossing the plate.

Dickhout was on hand and frequently. The Kingston boys pounded out nine safeties. Merritt was the only man from the Industrials to hit for an extra base. Baker's two-bagger made up the Saugerties' lone hit.

Besides using the bat effectively the Kingston men gave Peters good support. Although three errors marred their playing the misplays were not costly. On the other hand Dickhout had five errors committed behind him which, at times, made his position on the hill hard to overcome.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The tone of the local market was stronger again today on cucumbers and pickles of fancy quality. Consignments are gradually increasing from upstate New York and attractive quality offerings met a prompt sale. The finest cucumbers and pickles received from the western part of the state realized $2.75 per bushel basket.

Red raspberries were in limited receipt and prices strengthened. Pint baskets from this state realized as high as 35 cents. Some sold as low as 20 cents.

Supplies of state string beans are becoming more plentiful. Owing to the great variation in the quality today's top price obtained on the wax beans was $3 per bushel basket, with $2.50 on the green varieties.

Arrivals of Hudson valley Clapp's favorite pears were limited. Good quality large fruit met a fair outlet but ordinary and small received scant attention. The best pears jobbed out at $3 to $3.50 per bushel basket.

Hudson valley red currants were in short supply. The market was rather inactive. Sales were consummated at $ to 15 cents a quart. Black currants were very scarce and commanded as high as 50 cents.

Despite the lighter arrivals of celery from Orange county, New York, the market was without material improvement. Offering in the rough, packed in half crates of 12 stalks, brougth 20 to 75 cents.

Corncob Incense

By soaking dry corncobs in fragrant oils, such as that of sandalwood, cinnamon or clover, and then grinding them to powder, an effective incense has been prepared, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. White smoke and ashes are produced, and the substance is said to be superior to various other kinds.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, Aug. 3—While inquiries fell off somewhat, due to the midsummer slackness, the general volume of business in the electrical industry is maintaining a good level, Electrical World reports. Manufacturers of electrical pumping machinery report an improved demand for mining machinery.

At the end of the current year, A. M. Byers Company will concentrate its production of wrought iron by the Aston process at its new plant at Ambridge, Pa., which has a rated capacity of 15,000 tons a month. The monthly capacity of the plant it now leases at Warren, Pa., is 5,000 tons.

Merger of the J. W. Brown Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, with Electric Auto Lite Company through exchange of stock, has been assured, stockholders of the Brown company having deposited 86,000 of 100,000 common shares outstanding.

July sales of the National Cash Register Company for the seventeenth consecutive month exceeded the sales of the corresponding month of the previous year.

Stockholders of the North American Car Corporation will vote August 22 on increasing the authorized common stock from 125,000 to 500,000 no par shares, to provide for possible further expansion.

The republic Iron and Steel Company has received orders for feeder pipe for the gas line from Monroe, La., to Birmingham, Ala., and will produce this tubing on its electrical welding machine.

Emerald Production

The most productive emerald mines of today are in Columbia and Venezuela. There is a famous emerald mine near Santa Fe. Stones are still found, however, in some of the old mines of Egypt, and some years ago emeralds of a lovely color were thrown up by the sea near Alexandria. It is possible they came down in the silt of the Nile from the mines of upper Egypt.

University's History

Columbia university was founded in 1754 as King's college by royal grant of George II, king of England, "for the instruction of youth in the learned languages and the liberal arts and sciences." The Revolutionary war interrupted its active work, but in 1784 it was reopened as Columbia college. In 1912 the title was changed to Columbia university.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two so-called ball games in the American League yesterday provided the customers with 34 runs on 47 hits and enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to stretch their lead over the New York Yankees to 11½ games.

The A's outclassed the Detroit Tigers in a fray that lasted two hours and fourteen minutes to win by 11 to 10. The Yanks played two hours and twenty-five minutes before dropping a 9-8 decision to the Cleveland Indians.

Detroit piled up a lead of 8-3 on the A's in the first two innings but Connie Mack's pennant-bound youngsters kept pegging away, tied up the score at 9-all in the eighth when Owen Carroll forced in a run with a walk and won out in the same frame by scoring two more runs before Carroll could apply the brakes. It was not Harry Heilmann's fault that the Tigers lost. He drove out two home runs and two singles in five turns at bat.

Bib Falk's homer with two on in the ninth gave the Indians a thrilling victory over the Yanks. It was a see-saw battle with Pipgras and Heimach of the Yanks and Shaute of the Indians retiring under heavy gunfire.

Irving Hadley outpitched Alvin Crowder at Washington where the Senators downed the St. Louis Browns again, 5-3. Hadley, granting seven hits, had only two bad innings, the first and last. Washington bunched hits off Crowder in the second, fifth and eighth innings.

A two-run rally in the fifth gave the Boston Red Sox a 3 to 2 decision over Chicago. The White Sox scored one run in their half of the tenth on Taitt's double and Berg's single but the Red Sox came back with two on a third strike that got away from Berg, a force out. Bill Barrett's double and Regan's single.

In the National League, the league leading Chicago Cubs, held idle by rain, gained another half game on Pittsburgh which was blanked 2-0 by the Phillies. The Pirates' defeat left them five and one-half games from the top. Lester Sweetland gave the Pirates 11 hits but they could not bunch them to advantage. Larry French gave the Phils six hits but three errors by Clarke, rookie Pirate shortstop, gave the Phils one run in the fifth and Don Hurst's homer in the ninth gave the Quakers another tally. Hurst's last six hits have been home runs.

The St. Louis Cardinals pounded Dazzy Vance for 18 hits and 13 runs in six innings and coasted in to a 14-7 verdict over Brooklyn. Ernie Orsatti, Cardinal outfielder, got four hits and Jim Bottomley hit his 24th homer of the year.

The Cincinnati Reds finally broke the spell Fred Fitzsimmons has woven around their bats this season and beat the New York Giants, 3-2. Fitzsimmons has pitched 36 consecutive scoreless innings against the Reds until they scored a run on him in the first inning yesterday. Two more unearned runs came across in the third and Fitz was forced to accept a defeat despite the fact that he allowed only four hits, all told. Pete Donohue kept the Giants' eight hits well scattered.

BLUE SOX WILL DEFEND PRIDE IN KOENIG GAME.

Friction caused by an alleged statement of the Koenig Kandy Kids' manager that the Blue Sox are not good enough to oppose his team has gotten under the skin of the Blue Sox. The team expects to play its best game of the season Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park against the Koenigs and thus upset the statement credited to the Kandy Kids' boss.

The game will feature a picnic of the Workmen's Sick and Death Benefit Society at the park Sunday afternoon. A very enjoyable time is promised to those who attend.

ALL-STARS TO PLAY AT GARDINER SUNDAY

The Kingston All-Stars, who took a 14-3 fall out of the Gardiner Club two weeks ago, will face that team again this Sunday at Gardiner. It is understood that the Gardiner Club has "loaded up" for the occasion. Jimmy Yolzer or Walt Black will pitch for the All-Stars, who have signed Tom Joyce of Roxbury. Joyce's regular position is at shortstop. He is said to be an accomplished batter.

Red Sox at Tannersville.

The Kingston Red Sox will play Tannersville at that place Sunday afternoon. Earlier in the season the local team scored a win over the mountain aggregation and they are in hopes of repeating.

Games Sunday on Local Diamonds

Games Sunday on local diamonds promise to be of interest to the fans. They are as follows:

Pan-Ams vs. Jewish Center team of Poughkeepsie at the Pan-Am Park.

Koenig Kandy Kids vs. Blue Sox at Hasbrouck Park.

Rondout A. C. vs. Hercules A. C. at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

Largest Nugget

What was believed to be the largest gold nugget ever mined weighed 161½ pounds.

BALANCED! that's why FISK All-Cords give more mileage

THE Fisk tread is thick and tough, equal to all road strains. But it is not too heavy for the sidewall, nor is the sidewall too heavy for the bead. Every part is perfectly balanced; there are no weak points.

That is why Fisk All-Cord Tires wear evenly—why they do not give way at the shoulder or rim long before the tread is worn out.

Fisk balance, together with other Fisk features, gives you what you want most from your tires—comfortable, dependable mileage. Try a Fisk in place of that worn-out tire, and see how Fisk's balanced construction can cut your tire costs.

FISK WINDSOR ALL-CORD—A dependable tire at a low price. Made by the Fisk All-Cord Process.

FISK RUGGED—The finest tire ever made, giving the utmost in safe traction, good looks, and long life.

Foxx Dominates American Batmen

Athletics' First Baseman Strengthens Lead in Fifteenth Week of Playing—Team Batting Honors Shared By Yanks and Phillies—Mack's Pitchers, Headed By Grove, Lead the Field.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—The domination of Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics over the American League batting situation became more pronounced during the fifteenth week of the season, averages released today including Wednesday's games reveal. Connie Mack's first baseman had a mark of .392, 17 points better than that of Heinie Manush of St. Louis, who was in second place.

In shaking off the Manush menace, Foxx clouted the ball at a .428 clip during the week, a pace which proved much too brisk for his nearest rival. The week also gave George Herman Ruth opportunity to break into the first ten society for the first time this season.

Foxx was followed by these regulars: Manush, St. Louis, .375; Simmons, Philadelphia, .372; Lazzeri, New York, .361; Fonseca, Cleveland, .359; Heilmann, Detroit, .354; Combs, New York, .350; Ruth, New York, .348; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .347; Fothergill, Detroit, .345.

An increase in the activity of Yankee bats boosted Miller Huggins' team into a tie with the Athletics for first position in team batting. The Yanks picked up four points to make their season average .307. Philadelphia reached the same figure by adding two points.

Detroit tied with the A's last week, found the pitching more difficult in the east and slipped to third with a mark of .301.

Philadelphia had collected a season's total of 577 runs, and had restricted opposition to 377.

Connie Mack's pitchers continued to dominate the hurlers working in turn, with Robert Moses Grove laying out the route. Grove won one game for a record of 17 victories against only two defeats, while Rube Walberg recorded two triumphs to make his record 16 wins and five defeats. George Earnshaw's collection was the same as Walberg's. Tom Zachary of New York won another game and brought his record to six straight victories.

The team fielding leadership remained with Philadelphia, which had a season average of .976, the same as a week ago. St. Louis, with .973, and the Yankees with .972, remained in second and third places respectively with the same figures as a week ago.

BRITISHERS NOW FAVOR BASEBALL

Feature of Recent Contest Was Latham's Umpiring.

Britishers are beginning to take a perfectly ripping interest in the jolly old game of baseball.

This is the eighth consecutive year that the Anglo-American association has been in operation at the Stamford Bridge grounds near London and the season promises to be a record-breaker, according to information received in a letter from Lonsdale Green, a Chicagoan, visiting in London.

Green writes in particular concerning a game between the Akron (U. S. A.) nine and the London Americans, which was won by the latter by a score of 18 to 17.

A feature of the contest was the umpiring of Arlie Latham, who played with the St. Louis Browns and New York Giants many years ago. Latham must be close to seventy years, but he bossed the contest with the autocratic authority of a Brick Owens.

Despite the fact that Kiracofe, hurler for the Akrons, struck out the first nine men to face him, his team lost. This probably was due to the fact that his support was wabbly, the Akrons committing no less than ten errors.

A glance through the program reveals the fact that although baseball is being played in England the British have invented some entirely new features that should hand the American fans some laughs. The programs are numbered and after the game is started a drawing is held and the lucky numbers pulled from a hat are shown on a billboard back of the outfield. The holders of programs bearing these numbers win prizes furnished by leading London firms.

On one of the program pages is printed a diagram of the diamond showing the position of the players and the dimensions of the field. Below this is an explanation of baseball terms, a few of which were the following:

"Attaboy"—meaning "That's the boy," a general term of encouragement.

"Bonehead"—A stupid player.

"Razz"—To talk sarcastically to a player.

"Solid ivory"—What a fan thinks a stupid player's head is made of.

Weird Flight Gives Player Long Drive

Seattle, Wash.—Here's a golf story sworn to by Eg (Egbert) Brix, former Washington football and field star, and attested by the man he was playing the club professionals, and four other persons.

Brix, the story goes, drove off the third tee for the longest hole on the course, 645 yards. The ball sliced out of bounds hit the concrete highway, bounced onto the top of a Ford, teetered on the car's top, rolled off under the rear wheel, where it was pitched in such a manner as to cause it to leap into the air, fly across a ditch, and land on the No. 3 green, which had been Brix' objective, and roll to within four feet of the cup.

Advice

Atchison folks have quit worrying about a certain man. When he is taken off one road that leads to h—l, he immediately gets onto another road that leads to the same place. If a man is determined to go to h—l, why waste any time on him? Take that time and use it on a man who is wavering and is less determined.—Atchison Globe.

Made Handsome Income by "Hurry Up" Weddings

One of the most famous marriage brokers of history was "Rev. Alexander Keith, who, at the height of the Eighteenth century, did a flourishing trade in clandestine marriages in the Mayfair district of London. He used to celebrate as many as 6,000 a year and charged a guinea for each ceremony. He was publicly excommunicated and in return proceeded to excommunicate the bishop of London, Judge Andrews, who tried him, and the rector of St. George's.

James, fourth duke of Hamilton, was married to the beautiful Miss Gunnings at the Mayfair chapel with a ring from a curtain at 12:30 a. m. In 1753 the marriage act put an end to Keith's hast, weddings and he retired to private life.

How Poppy Became Symbol

There is some confusion and misunderstanding in regard to the use of the poppy as a symbol, by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The poppy was first sold in this country for war relief before the armistice, when Mme. Guerin disposed of millions of them which had been made by French orphans. The Veterans of Foreign Wars bought the last of her stock. In 1920 the American Legion had a national poppy sale, but in 1921 had a daisy sale. The Veterans of Foreign Wars then had a poppy drive. Later the Legion used the poppy. Both organizations now sell poppies near Memorial day for raising funds for needy veterans, and it seems that this flower has found a place in the American heart along with the red cross upon a white field.

Tit for Tat

"Ah," said the elderly tramp, giving his brimless hat a twirl, "education is a wonderful thing in our line of business."

"Why, whatever good is education to us?" asked the younger road walk

"I'll tell you," was the reply. "I was in Beverly one morning and knocked at the door of a tidy little bungalow. When the lady of the house came out to see who it was I quoted a little Shakespeare."

"Well?"

"An' she replied with a little bacon."

"Makers of the Flag"

On Flag day, 1914, before the employees of the Department of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane, then secretary of the interior, made an address which ended: "I swung before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. For you are the makers of the flag and it is well that you glory in the making."

Ancient Scissors Found

Behind old panelling in the house known as Queen Elizabeth's lodge, in Epping forest, England, a pair of scissors believed to be 250 years old were recently found. They were covered with rust, but when this was removed it was found by the mark stamped on the blade that they had been made in the Seventeenth century. They have been placed in the Guildhall museum in London.

Has German Name

What is now the Canadian province of New Brunswick was created a separate province in 1784 and given the name it now bears. The name comes from Brunswick, a duchy in northern Germany. Brunswick and Hanover were once united, and in 1714 George, elector of Hanover, a descendant of King James I, became also king of Great Britain.

Okeechobee Ranks Second

The Geological survey says that the area of Lake Okeechobee varies from 710 to 730 square miles, and also that it is the second largest fresh-water lake in the United States. The largest entirely in the United States is Lake Michigan. Lake Pontchartrain is the third in size in the United States.

MANY KINGSTON FOLKS AT MAVERICK THEATRE

(By F. G. Clough.)

A large number of people from Kingston and other nearby places attended the "first night" performance of the Maverick Theatre's fortnightly offering, "The Show Off," which proved to be a pleasant sort of comedy.

"The Show Off" was presented by the Maverick Stock Company actors with the proper amount of seriousness given to their lines. Maurice Wells, as Aubrey Piper, and Alice Ann Baker, as Mrs. Fisher, were the two outstanding actors. Both invested their roles with the necessary amount of bombast and humor to further the actual comedy of the play. Ellen Hall and Frances Allen took important parts; Ian M. Wolfe and George Tawde were next in line among the males in the cast.

The play has been taken from typical American life, is almost a cross-section of the habits and manners of both home and society. The central figure is Aubrey Piper, who is always "showing off." "You've got to make an impression, Mother Fisher," he says, and before the play ends he is successful. His bombast and self-centered conversation are often ridiculous to the point of nonsense, but also provoke many laughs. Alice Baker, as Mrs. Fisher, is the typical mother who bears the brunt of the home burden, acts as a buffer between jealous sisters, as a mainstay for the whole family, and finally as the "mother-in-law" for the one who continually "shows off." Her old-fashioned comments on life and actions are full with meat and wit, and she acts as a real foil for the vainglorious Aubrey.

The author of this play deftly wove into the lines a few comments and characterizations that are below the surface humor of the comedy. There is, for instance, the married daughter whose husband talks too little, and who withholds his love but is able and willing to pay. On the other hand, the unfortunate sister, who marries the "show off," is shown to be the more forunate because her husband at least loves her devotedly, and this in spite of the fact that he has little money with which to back up his tall talk. Eventually the wealthy brother-in-law pays bail for "The Show Off," and says he is glad to pay for another's mistakes because of his own mistakes that cannot be paid for.

"The Show Off" is really a good-humored and tolerant comment on much of the bombast and boasting that goes about us every day in home, office and street. For the theatregoer, there is a pleasant evening ahead at The Maverick Theatre in Woodstock. This play will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights of this week.

The Maverick Theatre directors have announced that the next production for middle August will be "The Second Man," by S. M. Behrmen, a brilliant and sophisticated comedy, their most pretentious for the season. This play was a New York Theatre Guild success.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Aug. 3.—On Wednesday, July 31, Mrs. Frank Gulnac and daughter Blanche, with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Crossley and daughter, Pearl, of Schenectady, spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Malcolm at Gardiner.

B. Bennett's Modern Drama classes at the Normal School, according to custom, are divided into groups, each group sooner or later entertaining the rest of the class by giving a play. Incidental to the entertaining process the actors learn a great deal about the art of acting, producing, etc. A certain "Sauce for the Goslings" has proven the triumph and queen of all the other performances thus far given. Among the actors in this highly successful drama were our own town girls, Misses Nellie Bullis, Frances Seward and Muriel Gregory.

Mrs. Floyd Depew has been entertaining her mother, Mrs. Uriah Quick of Leibhardt.

Mrs. John Snow and daughter, Ruth, of Kingston have been spending a few days with Mrs. Mary E. Kniffen.

Bayard H. Tyler, artist of Yonkers, has been at work on a picture of the Eltinge homestead, perhaps the quaintest of our old stone houses, on Huguenot street. The picture is nearly three feet long, shows the house from the point of view of the Old Fort, draped in vines and flecked with shadows from the maples. The lattice well house shows at the corner and a blue rug rests on a window sill.

Mrs. Frank Gulnac and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Clerment Crossley of Schenectady spent Tuesday with Mrs. Gulnac's brother, Philip McCord and family in Wallkill.

The Silvian Drew Circus gave a street parade and held an afternoon and evening perforance on the lot across from the Normal School, August 1.
